What happens when the payroll taxes go unpaid? Who is responsible when cash goes missing from a charitable organization or church? Keep your organization out of the headlines by learning the financial and legal responsibilities of serving as a board member, council member or trustee of a charitable organization or church.

Nonprofits continue to struggle in a slow economy, with stricter regulations, increased demand for services and reductions in income. This presentation will discuss the financial and compliance challenges that face nonprofits and will provide information and tools to protect the nonprofit and preserve donor, board, and public confidence. Discussion will include transparency, accountability, and risk management.

Presenter: Miriam Robeson, Attorney

Miriam Robeson has been in the private practice of law for more than 15 years, with a focus in nonprofit, corporate and agriculture law. Miriam guides small and medium-sized nonprofits through the ever-tightening path of government regulation, and counsels clients on business and tax planning issues. In addition to legal counsel for nonprofits, Miriam serves on local community service boards, including the Flora Community Club and the Carroll County Economic Development Corporation, and has rounded out experience "in the law" with experience "in the trenches" of the nonprofit world.
